

Carl Sacklen Freelance Portfolio

Updated: June 2018

Below are some notable articles I've written although they're by no means all of them.

The Daily Telegraph

One of the biggest national newspapers in Britain

- The bike share fiasco is typical of Britain's regulatory mess. We need to reform to thrive, 2018

The Gate

The official undergraduate political review at the University of Chicago where I have a regular column about European Politics and Economics.

- Corbyn's Politics Belongs in the Past, 2018
- To Stop Authoritarianism, the EU Must Act Decisively, 2018
- Could Russian Provocation Force Neutral Sweden to Join NATO?, 2017
- Does Norway's Tesla Tax show that electric cars are finally becoming normal?, 2017
- Progress in a Regressive Era: an Interview with Swedish author and economic historian Johan Norberg, 2017
- After the Ice Melts: A New Economic Region with a Far-Reaching Impact, 2017

CapX

A highly popular economics publication founded by the Centre for Policy Studies

- How Mexico Can Cope with the Age of Trump, 2017
- There Will Be Another Revolution in Cuba - An Economic One, 2016

The Independent

A respected UK national newspaper

- Corbyn's Team is Leakier Than a Sinking Ship, 2016
- Young People Can Use the EU Referendum to Show They're a Force to Be Reckoned with, 2016
- Russia's Airstrike on a Syrian Hospital Was No Accident. It Was A Cold-Blooded Attack, 2016

Huffington Post

A widely-read online publication

- Ending Voter Apathy, 2017
- From Tolerant to Nasty, 2016
- Sanders and Corbyn: More Unites Them Than the Word "Socialism", 2016
- Don't #ResistCapitalism. Reform It, 2016
- Is Corbyn as Popular as it Seems?, 2016

Disclaimer Magazine

A London-based politics and culture magazine

- Interview with Liberal Democrat party leader Tim Farron, 2016